

An International Discussion on Advancing the Rights of Children

Wednesday, November 16, 2022

9:00 - 11:00 AM
Eastern Standard Time (EST)

Featuring Book Contributors

Via Zoom Webinar

How do children's ombudspersons advance children's rights? Children's ombudspersons, also known as independent children's rights institutions, have been established worldwide. Endorsed by the UN, they are independent of their governments and endowed with legal powers. Yet we know little about how children's ombudspersons function. How do they work? What shapes their success? What objectives do they pursue?

Moderator

Brian Gran - Professor of Sociology, Law, and Applied Social Sciences, Case Western Reserve University

Featured Panelists

- Bruce Adamson - Children and Young People's Commissioner of Scotland
- Karl Hanson - Professor of Law and Director of the University of Geneva, Centre for Children's Rights Studies
- Ursula Kilkelly - Professor of Law, University College Cork, Ireland
- Emily Logan - Commissioner, Garda Síochána Ombudsman Commission
- Ágnes Lux - Research Fellow, Centre for Social Sciences, Hungary

Register online and add it to your calendar at case.edu/schubertcenter/events/

International Partners: the Centre for Social Sciences, Hungary and the University of Geneva, Centre for Children's Rights Studies

SCHUBERT CENTER
FOR CHILD STUDIES

Call 216.368.0540 or visit case.edu/schubertcenter/events/ for more information.